Hey, I'm just doing a quick survey on how people use AI and whether we can actually trust what it says. Is it okay if I record this? It's just so I can get your answers down correctly. Yeah, okay, it's okay.

So here are the questions. So what do you usually use AI for in your daily life or for your studies or like for what? Mostly I use AI for searching mails and information and other formations regarding. Okay, when it gives you an answer, do you usually just trust it or do you feel like you have to double check everything? Actually, I don't trust it much without any verification.

Has an AI ever told you something totally wrong but kept acting like it was 100% correct? How did you handle that? Yes, that's why I use it very carefully when I use AI, especially. Yeah. Okay, does the AI ever make you doubt yourself like you knew the answer but the AI was so confident that you started to think like you were the one who was wrong? Yeah, not really.

I relay more on my own judgment. Okay, that's good. Where do you personally draw the line between using AI for help and it becoming cheating? It becomes when cheating, it replaces original thinking.

Okay, if you used AI for something important and it gave you the wrong information, who do you think is actually responsible, you or AI? AI will be responsible. Okay, do you think relying on AI is making it harder for us to think for ourselves or is it just a better way to learn? I can make people dependent. It can make people dependent if overused.

Okay, so you say it can make people dependent if it's overused, okay. Have you ever felt forced to use AI just because everyone else is using it and you don't want to fall behind? No, no, no. I don't feel forced to use it.

Okay, how do you feel when you have to do a task without any AI? Does it feel harder to focus or get started? Nothing like that. I feel normal, not a big difference in using it. Okay, last one.

Which AI platforms or apps do you actually use the most? Chargib associately. Okay, that's all. Thanks a lot for helping.

I really appreciate your time. Thank you very much.
